Located at 541 S. Hough Street is a two-and one-half-story asymmetrical Queen Anne dwelling built in 1891 as the home of Dr. Cort Kendall and his family. The house has a continuous stone foundation, a hip and gable roof of asphalt shingles with a metal finial, an interior brick chimney and an exterior of weatherboard siding. On the main (W) façade is a hip roof porch with an elliptical section on the north façade supported by original Tuscan wood columns and a wood railing. Above the entrance is a projecting gable with decorative wood scrolling in the gable field. The main entrance retains its original leaded glass and wood panel door. Windows are original one-over-one wood sash with simple wood surrounds. In the first floor projecting bay on the main façade is a large, single-light fixed window with a single-light leaded glass transom. On the north and south façade are two-story chamfered bays with original windows. At the eaves are large brackets and a wide wood cornice. In the gable fields are fish scale shingles. In the half-story are arched-painted glass single-light attic windows.

Located off the northeast corner of the dwelling is a reconstructed ca. 2000/newly built, single-bay, frame garage with a side gable roof of asphalt shingles, a metal panel overhead track door and a lateral wing with sliding track vinyl windows. – Noncontributing
